Spirited Cevalry Horses. A writer who professes to know the points a good "war horse," thus speaks of these imals: Dull, sluggish horses can never be trained the point requisite for an efficient cavalry erse. Almost as much depends in a suc-

eman. Indeed it may be doubted whether recruits mounted on well drilled horses could not be more servicable than veteran soops mounted on clumsy "low spirited animit" At the battle of the Pyramids the sould of Muzad Bey's cavalry charged remodly in squadrons after their riders were won the English, under the same circum-

And after the Marquis Romana was comeled to leave his horses on the shores of enmark, after the embarkation of the troops r Spain, we all remember how they formed emselves into two hostile armies, as the mce, and charged upon each other with such try that the earth shook for miles around, ad the terrified inhabitants of the country ed panie-stricken to their houses. So terible was the slaughter of these fine Andalucan horses, that out of a body of 10,000 but few handred remained alive.

Making Others Happy.

Have you made one heart happy to-day?— fow calmly you seek your pillow! how sweet-y sleep! In all this world there is nothing so weet as giving comfort to the distressed, as etting a sun ray into the gloomy heartehildren of sorrow meet us wherever we turn; there is not a moment that tears are not shed and sighs uttered, yet how many of these sighs are caused by our own thoughtlessness; how many a daughter wrings the very soul of a ford mother by acts of unkindness and inguitede. How many husbands, by one little word, make a whole day of sad hours and untind thoughts. How many wives, by recrimastion, estrange and embitter loving hearts. How many brothers and sisters meet but to tex each other, making wounds that no huuse power can beal. Ab, if each one worked spon this maxim day by day-"Strive to make some heart happy!"—jealousy, revenge, madness, hate, with their kindred evil assogates, would forever leave the earth.
